DO YOU KNOW

That many a man works hard, saves money and afterwards fools his savings away on poor clothing?

Such is the fact, and why? Simply because it's impossible for every man to judge clothing intelligently. Impossible for every man to work two or more trades and do justice to all. Impossible for every man to be an expert at buying clothing, and impossible to know when an article is worth the money in houses that tolerate haggling.

We have set up the standard, and so far as is absolutely safe for some of the dealers to hold without allowing their own educated bird to fly from their grasp, the one price principle is adhered to, but mind you, no buyer who dares to make an offer escapes with out the purchase, even though they parade through the papers the great I am one price.

Are there many one price cash clothiers in Springfield? How many? Who?

Spring neckwear opening began Saturday. We are showing our very best skill in its display, and our great quantity buying advantages in price. We've waited a month for this very news. Every scarf, every 4 in. tie, every neck, every classic, and every string tie we show are made from our own selected silks in the piece, and this is why we've waited a month for neckwear news.

You'll be surprised at what a quarter will do to renew your age, or the amount of solid comfort in knowing there is one place in the city where 50 cents is as good as a dollar. The ties are here, our salesmen are here. Easiest place in town to find all sorts without bother. Even the very ancient stocks, and the once stylish Napoleon cravats are here.

Boys' cork-screw suits, with hats to match. The hats without the suits, or vice versa. Hats for men, overcoats, suits, underwear. You are welcome to see us any day.

IT NEVER MOVED.

A Week of Almost Uninterrupted Leuten Dullness in the World of Society.

The Belles Favorite Society People Will Miss the Bookwater Collection. The Monotonous Round of the Girl of the Period and Her Ambition for Something Better. Interesting Interview With a Society Girl Turned Schoolmarm.

BOOKWATER.

A had down rose. I saw it there. Mid rare old face imprisoned, where like gentle ocean's softest swell. The fair young bosom rose and fell. And glowed like morning, fresh and fair. And I am favored! But, no, no, no. Could not another just as well. Have played the part, to bluish and wear. Thy had down rose?

More than ever during the past week the Bookwater collection has been the center of social attraction. The excursions from outside points have brought in a great many people who have friends in town, and Springfielders went as much to see the visitors as to view the curios. Among the Columbus people on Thursday were Mrs. James Wilcox, Mrs. Robert Uel, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Peters, Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Peters, Miss Mary Ellis, Miss Sue Loving, Miss Sue Platt, Miss Hattie Harrison, Miss Jennie Sullivan, Miss Marie Greenfield, Miss Hattie Marple, Miss Anna Smith, Mrs. Samuel Strons, Miss Lillian Strons, Miss Thayer, Miss Esie Peters, Miss Cora Savage and many others.

The single social event of the week was a very charming social afternoon party given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Marshall Steele at their handsome residence on West Main street. At six o'clock a very elaborate lunch in five courses was served. Among her guests were Mrs. C. A. Phelps, Mrs. J. D. Little, Mrs. Dr. Ramsay, Mrs. Walter Mills, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Charles Rabbits, Mrs. John Shipman, Mrs. J. L. Kider, Mrs. L. M. Doup, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. William Grint, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Frank Webb, Mrs. Chappin and others.

The other day the writer had the pleasure of an hours conversation with a very beautiful and intelligent young lady who is a school teacher in a neighboring city. No blood in the state is bluer than that which courses in her veins. A member of the oldest and one of the wealthiest families of the city in which she resides, she was reared in luxury, and her life has been surrounded with every refinement and comfort that good taste could suggest or ample means could purchase. Presuming on an acquaintance of long-standing I asked her how she had come to adopt her profession and whether she was happy in her choice. "I chose it because I was not matrimonially inclined," answered she, very frankly, "and I had nothing else to occupy my time. Had I been reared in Washington or New York, I could doubtless have occupied myself with social duties, but in — we do not have a lot of parties every evening, and the society girl often finds time hanging very heavily on her hands. They crave occupation and excitement just as a man does, and you will so often find them wild to get up something, to do something, anything that will break the slow, monotonous round of their daily life. They do not read novels half so much as men give them credit for, and it is very seldom that you find one who is not eager to accomplish some actual good in the world. Many of them find delight in small household duties, and a large number of our gayest and most brilliant society girls are very excellent housekeepers. Again many of our wealthiest girls make all, or a great part at least, of their wearing apparel, simply because it gives them something to do. For this same reason also you find plenty of girls of wealth and high social position studying for different professions, particularly that of medicine. With the majority of them it is not only a desire to fill up their time that impels them to work, but also a feeling that their lives are aimless and worthless, and an eagerness to accomplish some actual good by their own exertions. Actually there have been times in my life when I envied the girl behind the counter who was waited upon by me, because I felt that she was a part of the great organism of industrial society and did her part, however small, toward building up the wealth of the world. It is just this feeling that causes so many girls to be dissatisfied with the 'hobbies' they have chosen. It is true that the study of almost any science is an interesting occupation, so long as the student can look forward to putting her knowledge into practice and to attaining some practical result. But when she knows that it will never lead up to anything, do you wonder that she loses interest in the study?"

"All girls are not by any means fond of society or interested in the petty flirtations and gossip that make up the excitement of a thorough-going society girl's life. Particularly it is so in a town like ours, where the highest social circles are very exclusive, and we meet the same people over and over again at every party. I like plenty of others of my class, went through the painful farce of appearing amused night after night by waiting with men about whom I cared nothing, and by engaging in social gossip in which I was not interested in the least. Since I began my work in the school I have been thoroughly contented and happy. Every moment of my time is occupied, and each evening I have the satisfaction of knowing that I have accomplished some good in the world. I become very deeply interested in my pupils, and it seems that I love each class better than the last. Yes, I am very happy in my choice, and I know that half my friends envy my contentment."

I have not with little or no adverse criticism on my course on the contrary, my friends seem to understand my reasons pretty thoroughly. The people of the period are rapidly getting rid of the prejudice that once made it beneath a lady to work."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stout and Mrs.

William White have gone to Florida for a brief sojourn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huston, of Columbus, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Carpenter last Friday.

Dr. Bayless, editor of the Western Christian Advocate of Cincinnati, is the guest of J. W. Burns.

Miss Anna Black, of South Market street, has returned from a protracted visit in Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Phillips went to Kansas last evening to prepare their future home. They expect to be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Warder have returned from Washington, and are domiciled in their mansion at the head of Columbia street.

Miss Laura Coles, who has been spending the spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coles, returned to Delaware yesterday.

RALLY ONCE AGAIN!

Tomorrow's Contest—No Easy Victory to be Anticipated. The Complete Ticket, and List of Voting Places.

The fight is on, and by tomorrow night will be decided the outcome between the straight republican candidates and the fusion ticket nominated by the prohibitionists and democrats. Let no republican deceive himself with the belief that the party will have an easy victory, as heretofore. Not a few honest workmen have been blinded by the false of a "citizens' movement," and not a single vote too many can be cast. If it does not help to elect the candidate, it will help to swell his majority and demonstrate the strength of the party of progress. Rain or shine, let every loyal republican be at the polls good and early tomorrow morning.

Following is a list of the republican city and township candidates and the voting places of the precincts:

FIRST WARD.

Voting place at the probate judge's office.

For Councilman—No nomination.

For School Board—W. J. Brassfield.

For Assessor—Thos. W. Bean.

UNRECORDED MARRIAGES.

Squires and Preachers Who Do Not Make Returns of Marriages Liable to a Severe Penalty.

List of Persons to Whom Marriage Licenses Have Been Issued and Whose Marriages Have Never Been Returned to the Probate Court.

Of all persons in the world one would think that preachers and magistrates—the one, guides and educators of the people, and the other, administrators of the law—would be prompt and accurate in the performance of their duties, but it is so recorded with sadness, a few of them at least are deficient in their attention to the little duties.

In order to be able to cite an instance in support of the above general statement, a representative of the Globe-Republic yesterday afternoon examined the marriage record at the probate judge's office. A somewhat startling discrepancy in the record was discovered. Since September, 1881, about one hundred marriage licenses have been issued, for which the ministers or magistrates who performed the ceremonies have not returned to the probate court the certificate which is required to make the record complete.

The law is very explicit on this point, distinctly providing that the preacher or magistrate shall make return of such certificate within ninety days after he performs the ceremony, and in case he fails to do so shall be liable to a fine of $50. The statute is a good one and should be enforced more strictly than it is.

It is not possible, of course, for the probate judge to compel the magistrates, or preachers to return the certificates, as he does not always know by whom the marriages are performed. Persons who are married, however, should see to it that they who perform the ceremony makes the proper return to the probate court.

In many cases, perhaps, the neglect of this point by the preacher or squire would make no special difference, but if the marriage record should ever be required in the courts and be found incomplete, endless trouble and litigation might be the result. The sufferers would, of course, be the parties whose marriage record was not complete.

Subjoined is a list of persons to whom marriage licenses have been issued since September 1, 1881, and whose certificates of marriage have never been returned to the probate court. The list is complete up to January 1, 1886:

Charles Grimm and Sarah Metzgar, Jesse A. Biel and Fannie M. Thomas, William H. Gedling and Anna Myers, Dennis Cahill and Mary Kelly, John L. Phlecer and Nettie McCauley, Isiah Garrett and Barbara Cory, James Zechman and Susan Rohrer, Albert Spears and Mary P. Peterson, Wm. MAYOR'S COURT.

His Honor Disposes of Several Cases With Swiftness and Dispatch.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mayor Goodwin opened the hall at the police court by calling the case of the state vs. James Stappleton, the safe blow, charged with pointing a loaded revolver at Officer Temp. Wilson. Stappleton was represented by E. S. Wilson. The fellow was arraigned, pleaded not guilty, and his trial was set for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. In default of $500 bond Stappleton was remanded to jail.

Elmer Woodworth, Joseph O'Neil, James Lester and Anderson James pleaded guilty to loitering, and were fined $2 and costs each.

J. M. Kennedy pleaded guilty to being disorderly, and was fined $1 and costs. "Doc" Campbell also pleaded guilty to the same charge, and the mayor administered to him the same dose. Anderson James was arraigned on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, a pistol being found on him when he was arrested Friday night. He pleaded not guilty, claiming that the pistol was not concealed, and his trial was set for next Tuesday.

Thomas Taylor was arraigned for disorderly conduct, and entered a plea of not guilty. The case was carried over till 7:30 o'clock last evening, when Taylor proved by two witnesses that he had not been disorderly, and was discharged with a parting injunction from the mayor not to get pulled again for six months.

Ed. Moore, the Selma burglar, had his preliminary examination. It was proved that he was seen in Selma on the night of the burglary and that the stolen gold watch was in his possession when he was arrested. Two men who came over from Columbus, as witnesses for Moore, testified that they saw him in Columbus on Saturday and Sunday trying to sell the watch, but had not seen him for several days before. The burglary was committed on Friday night, so their testimony went for nothing in favor of the prisoner. Moore was bound over to court in the sum of $500 in default of which he was returned to jail.

At last evening's session of the court Ed. Dew got $2 and costs for loitering.

The Silver King.

The grand English melodrama, "The Silver King," with its wealth of beautiful scenery and great cast, will be seen at the Grand Saturday evening, April 10th. This time one of America's famous actors, Frank C. Bangs, will be the "Silver King." Mr. Bangs will be remembered as the Mark Antony of the "Julius Caesar" with Booth, Burnett and lamented Davenport.

"The Silver King" is the story of a lifetime, full of human interest and human love, from bright and innocent childhood to rare and radiant old age. There is much in it to make people laugh, and more to make them think.

"Engaged" and "Camille" Yesterday Afternoon and Evening.

The Mande Granger troupe played to an unusually large matinee audience yesterday afternoon, composed principally of ladies and children. The play presented was Gilbert's latest and most successful farcical comedy, "Engaged."

In the evening "Camille" with Miss Granger in the title role, was again given. The house was crowded and would have been packed had it not been for the extremely inclement weather. The play was given with the same success as that of all others of Miss Granger's pieces.

Three Mechanicburg teachers—Misses Josie Woodward, Mattie Morris and Linna Reece—visited the Bookwater collection yesterday. Miss Woodward took the 1:30 p. m. train for Cincinnati to spend vacation week with her mother and brother. Miss Morris returned to Mechanicburg on the 3:30 train. Miss Reece will spend vacation week at home.

A GOOD NIGHT'S WORK.

The Police Pull Joe Sheets' Poker Room, and Take in the Usual Number of Drunks and Disorderlies.

The police had a lively time last night, as compared with the preceding five or six nights, and by midnight had made twelve arrests.

Assistant Chief McKay, Officer Wilson and Deputy Marshal Pote began the fun by making a raid on Joe Sheets' gambling room on Main street, just west of Center. For some time it has been known that Sheets was running a game, and it was finally determined to pull the house last night. At 9:45 o'clock the officers walked into the saloon, and McKay read the warrant to the proprietor. The poker room was being read Sheets seized the bell rope and gave it a yank, thus warning the players in the room above. The officers rushed up stairs and burst into the room, but not quite quick enough, for most of the men had taken their cue from the alarm bell and skipped. They had rushed up through a trap door into the third story and scattered all over the building. Six men, including the proprietor, were captured and all gave bond for their appearance. Following are the names of those captured: Joe Sheets, W. S. Sylvester, Chalmers McKay, Frank Roberts, Al Fisher and Frank Hawes. A lot of chips were confiscated by the officers.

Charles Aldrich was found late last night by Chief McKay lying in an alley, downed by an overdose of booze. He had to be carried to the station house.

Officer Foster and Gregory arrested Henry and August Bickel on the charge of disorderly conduct. The two brothers were rammed involved in a hulk in a cigar store on Main street near Race. Before the hose was turned on them they had succeeded in banging up each other badly and demolishing the store.

Officer Delaney captured Jim Bundy and John Grayson on the 11th. They were practicing a la John L. Sullivan.

William Johnson, colored, was seen by Officer McAuliff walking along Cherry street with a large sack on his shoulder. He stopped the fellow, examined the sack and found that it contained coal. When questioned Johnson said that he had purchased the coal at Kelly's coal office. The officer walked him to Kelly's, and there it was learned that Johnson had not been near the office. He was then escorted to the jail on the charge of petit larceny. At the jail Johnson admitted that he had stolen the coal from the Ohio Southern yards.

SECRET SOCIETY NOTES.

Open Secrets of the Oath-Bound Brotherhoods. Matters of Interest, Amusement, and Suggestions for the Good of the Order.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Champion City division No. 44, held a special meeting last Friday evening, at which time five brothers were admitted to the Uniform Rank.

Sir Knight F. A. Kress, of Red Cross division, Cleveland, is spending Sunday in the city, and is slightly indisposed. He is stopping at the Arcade.

Division 44 will hold their regular meeting tomorrow (Monday) evening for transaction of business and conferring of rank. The Sir Knights will attend in uniform.

Sir Knight Lieutenant Commander Folsom was in Marysville last week and made the acquaintance of a number of brothers in that place.

Chancellor Commander Hansell visited Urbana and secured the working council of 107 for Tuesday evening.

Sir Knight A. L. Gutthel has accepted a situation with the Winchester wagon works as bookkeeper.

Division 44 will probably have a social in the near future.

Sir Knight Solenderger furnished the amusement one week ago last Friday and Sir Knight High last Friday night.

The brothers of Red Star lodge are beginning to get thoroughly interested in the uniform rank, and Division 44 is booming up.

There is talk among the Sir Knights of Division 44 of attending the session of the supreme lodge at Toronto in July. It would be a very pleasant trip at that time of the year.

The working council of Laurelet lodge, No. 107, at Urbana will visit Red Star Tuesday evening, April 6, and work the amplified third rank on a limited number of esquires. Those who took the esquire rank first will be given preference, and all charter members or those who first were proved as esquires will present themselves Tuesday evening at the Castle hall at 7 o'clock sharp.

The regular meeting of Red Star lodge will be held Wednesday evening, at which time the initiatory will be worked and such other business transacted as may be presented.

ORDERED CROSS.

The entertainmen of Olive Branch Commandery, No. 5, O. R. C., at their hall, Friday evening, was a social and ball indeed. About eighty couples, composed of members of the commandery and their company, gathered together for the purpose of making each other's acquaintance, which they did, and all enjoyed themselves hugely. The committee had everything prepared in good season, and at nine o'clock a luncheon was served, after which those who wished enjoyed dancing the remainder of the evening.

A five minutes' session was held Friday night, at which it was decided to hold an adjourned meeting next Tuesday evening at 7:30 in division 44 K. P. armory, over Burns & Lafferty's grocery.

The commander thinks Bro. Lynch's lemonade was excellent.

Bro. Cost was mistaken for Arnold, the lightning ticket-seller.

F. O. O. F.

Springfield Lodge, No. 33, initiated one candidate last Thursday evening.

Bro. Kennedy, of Hamilton, Ohio, visited Springfield Lodge last Thursday evening, and expressed himself highly pleased with the work.

Springfield Lodge will confer the first degree next meeting night. A good attendance of the members of the lodge is earnestly requested. Brothers, show your appreciation of the labors of the degree staff by attending lodge.

Fidella Lodge, No. 12, D. of R., will give an entertainment next Wednesday evening at the armory of Division No. 6, U. R. K. P. The entertainment will consist of tableaux, dramatic scenes, recitations, and music. The proceeds are to be used for the purpose of purchasing paraphernalia for the degree staff of Fidella Lodge. The closing feature of the entertainment is a burlesque entitled "Pygmalion and Galatea." Time, 8:00 P. C. Scene, Athens. Dramatic personae: Pygmalion, an artist; Galatea, the statue; Fulvius, a warrior; Spirius, a coxswain; Petrus, servant to Pygmalion. The entertainment will commence at 8 o'clock p. m. Holders of tickets will be given the preference, as no tickets will be sold at the door until ten minutes before commencing the entertainment. The admission fee is only ten cents so as to be within the reach of everyone. Brothers, Fidella lodge deserves patronage, come and help us. Show your appreciation of the sisters by purchasing a ticket if you do not go to the show, but we will be glad to see you not only at the show, but also in the R. D. lodge.

NATIONAL UNION.

Meeting night, Tuesday, April 6. Every member is earnestly requested to be present
